

FEBRUARY READING BINGO

|                               |   |   |                                  |                                  |
|-------------------------------|---|---|----------------------------------|----------------------------------|
| near someone I love           | while hugging a stuffed animal                    | while wearing red   | a book that belongs to a friend  | on a Monday                      |
| while "lip syncing" the words | while eating a Valentine treat                    | a book about friendship or Valentines   | after I tell someone I love them | on a Thursday                    |
| about science                 | on a Tuesday                                      |  | while sitting in a homemade fort | as quietly as possible           |
| under a table                 | while it is raining                               | on a Wednesday  | under an umbrella                | after you have cleaned your room |
| on a Friday                   | to someone who needs something kind done for them | a comic book  | a funny book                     | something that is not a book     |